SWAZILAND REPORT, July 2013

Kenneth (Wheresoever leader) and Matthias (former Wheresoever Core Team member who now lives in South Africa) visited Swaziland while waiting for hospital treatment for Kenneth's wife Enesia. They had powerful experiences with God. One of the results was the formation of the first Wheresoever Council outside Mozambique. The following is Kenneth's account, modified for English and clarifications:

During Enesia's recovery from the kidney surgery in early April, she encountered complications and needed to go to a better hospital in South Africa. Unfortunately, due to circumstances she could not be admitted right away. During the waiting time, Matthias introduced me to a pastor from Swaziland who asked me to go together with Matthias and preach the Gospel at his church. God moved, people were saved, healed and delivered.

The next day, other pastors and Christians from different denominations came to worship – it was powerful again. I introduced Wheresoever Ministries to the pastors. They were very much touched and wanted to be taught leadership and doing crusades so that many souls could come to Jesus in Swaziland. They said that Swaziland is very far from knowing Jesus and people there are very much involved in traditional dance which comes together with ancestor worship and other spiritually dark practices. This has led to many men having more than one wife, which encourages HIV in the country known to have by far the worst aids epidemic in the world. They need more seminars to teach leaders since they have little understanding of the Bible and do not have the knowedge or inclination to run crusades.

The people of Swaziland need Jesus to set them free from captivity. The leader of the Sangoma (Zulu traditional healers) surrendered her trinkets and equipment after the Holy Spirit touched her. This witch doctor was the most feared in the area and confessed that she has destroyed many people. After receiving Jesus she now had peace. On the right you see her happily giving testimony to the church, and taking communion.

There are many orphans who need to be looked after. One child confessed that she wanted to commit suicide just because she is taking care of her three sisters and one brother. Her parents died of aids and she can't manage to help her fellow children while crying. Pray that God will help Wheresoever Ministries to reach the unreached with the word of God and meet the needs of the poor. Many divorces are taking place. Between this and the aids epidemic, children are left with nobody to care for them. I thank God that I went to Swaziland.

The power of God made pastors to come together and accepted to form a Wheresoever Ministries Council in Swaziland. Please help us by praying. We have made a program next year to run a very big seminar and crusades at Mpolonjeni. The chief has welcomed the idea and promises to donate something. By God's grace we should also carry with us some gifts for orphans. We can start with 30, things needed to buy are school uniforms, books, vaseline, etc.

God bless you. Swaziland is calling.

Shalom,
Pastor Kenneth
